

JANY HIGH SCHOOL HERO ESSAY CONTEST WINNER!

Rachel Resnik

The Bronx High School of Science

“Throughout my educational experience, I have always been a special needs child battling the New York City public school system. When I was younger, I was diagnosed with binocular vision disorder, a learning disability that functionally impacts my ability to process visual, mathematical, and scientific information. Although, this has been quite challenging, I have never let this stop me...”